Something you have wished

Something you have dreamed

Something you will never forget

Something you want to pass on

Something you are most proud of Something you hope for others

Time moves in one direction, constantly ticking onwards. Memories are different, the times and dates are not always important or relevant.

Memories are fragments of time worth saving and savouring. This does not mean, however, we will all remember them the same way.

Natalie Webb

Future Memories is an exhibition at the Espacio Gallery featuring 33 of South London Women Artists each responding to the theme differently through painting, photography, print, sculpture, textiles, performance and poetry.

Curated by Helen Peacock, Jennifer Merrell and Natalie Webb
